Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt,
Dean of Medical School,
University of Oregon,
City.

Dear Dr. Dillehunt:

After talking over the telephone with you this morning it occurred to me that it might be more satisfactory if you and I could have a conference together before any other meeting is called, that we might determine in our own minds just what plan of organization would be best for the future development of the Dispensary after the change is made to the proposed new building on the hill.

Then we would have something definite to present at a meeting when it is called.

Such a conference was advised by Mrs Corbett when I talked with her last week.

Very sincerely yours,
